ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 11-12, 14-17, 19-21, 23-24, 26-27, 30-31 and 34-38 are considered allowable since when reading the claims in light of the specification, as per MPEP §2111.01, none of the references of record alone or in combination disclose or suggest the combination of limitations specified in independent claims, including an invention of a computer-implemented method comprising, determining, by a workload analyzer computing system, whether a workload executed or being executed by a platform resembles a reference workload (defined at, e.g. ¶ 0007). Specifically, independent claims 11, 21, 24, 27 and 31 disclose a method, system and apparatus for correlating each of a plurality of observed performance values to each of a corresponding plurality of reference performance values of the reference workload to produce a correlation metric (defined at, e.g. ¶ 0028). representing the degree of overall statistical correlation between the plurality of observed performance values and the plurality of reference performance values (defined at, e.g. ¶ 0029-30); selecting, by the workload analyzer, a set of one or more configuration parameter values pre-selected for the platform to execute the resembled reference workload and configuring the workload analyzer using the set of one or more configuration parameter values (defined at, e.g. ¶ 0019). Claim 17 discloses a method of generating a lookup index based in part on an output of an index function configured to accept as input, one or more measured performance values (defined at, e.g. ¶ 0038).

The examiner interprets the machine readable medium to be a tangible computer memory (defined at, e.g. ¶ 0044).

A practical application of the invention would be any market segment using general purpose processors, such as networking, imaging and industrial interactive clients (defined at, e.g. ¶ 0002).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
